DON ED HARDY

A Southern California native born in 1945, Hardy began tattooing in 1966 while completing a B.F.A. degree in printmaking (etching) at the San Francisco Art Institute. He developed the fine art potential of the medium with emphasis on its Asian heritage, frequently studying and working in Japan since 1973. Although still maintaining a San Francisco tattoo studio, he no longer tattoos but focuses on painting, printmaking, and porcelain. He has had numerous exhibitions in galleries and museums internationally, curated several shows, and written and published over twenty books on alternative art. His vintage tattoo designs are the basis of an international fashion line, Ed Hardy, and recently he is the subject of a feature length documentary by Emiko Omori titled, Ed Hardy: Tattoo the World.
